About Me

I'm a native Italian, and I have been living in Helsinki for about 5 years. I have a strong international background and lived/worked and traveled in 3 countries. I've been mostly studying web development through self studies and online courses, but I also attend meetups with other developers during events or clubs.

My focus at the moment is on front-end development: HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. I aim to create beautiful, responsive and user-friendly web pages, and I pay a lot of attention to UI and prototyping. Using CSS grid, flexbox, media queries, I attempt to build everything from scratch rendering a page more unique and customized.

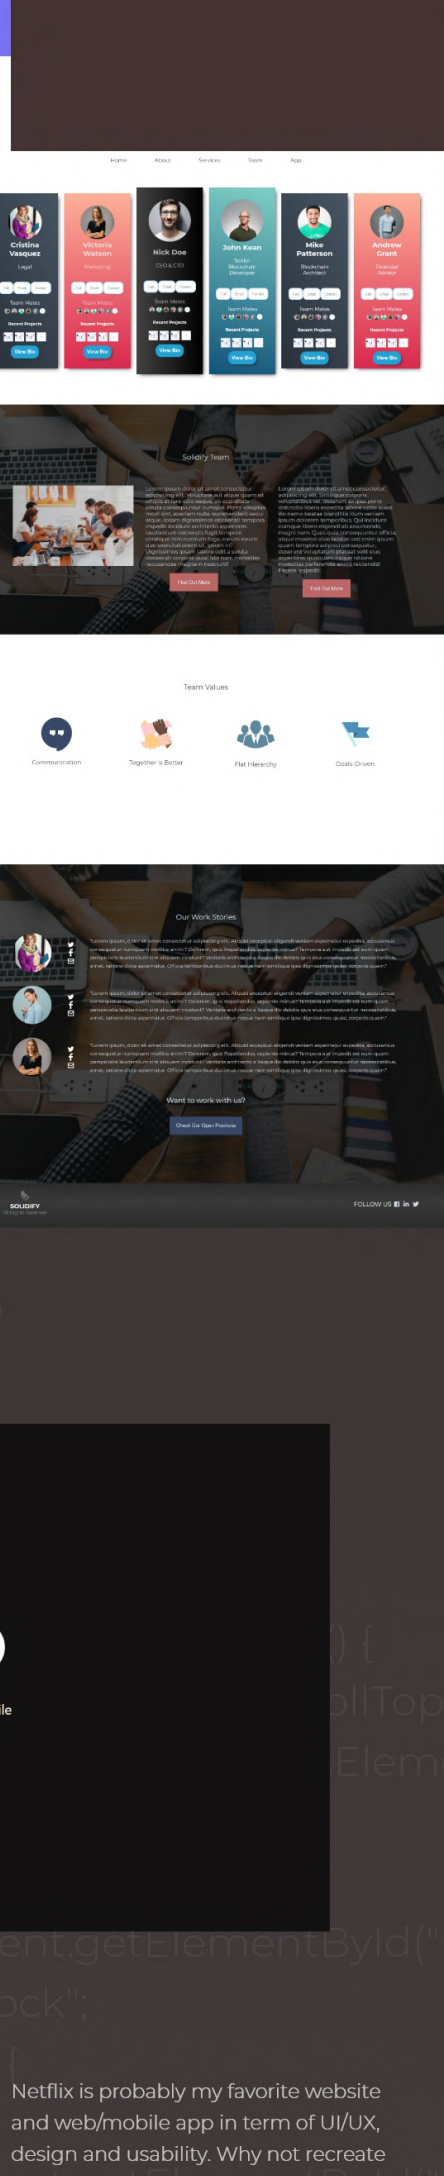

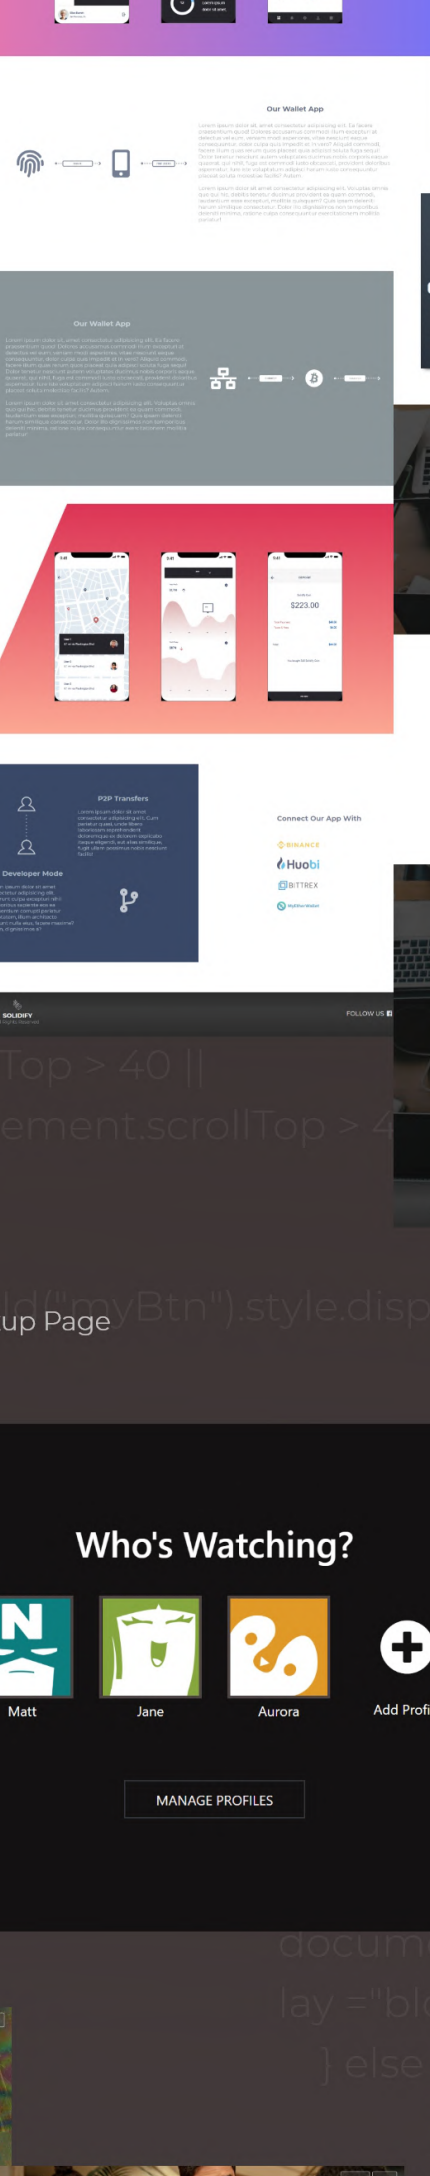

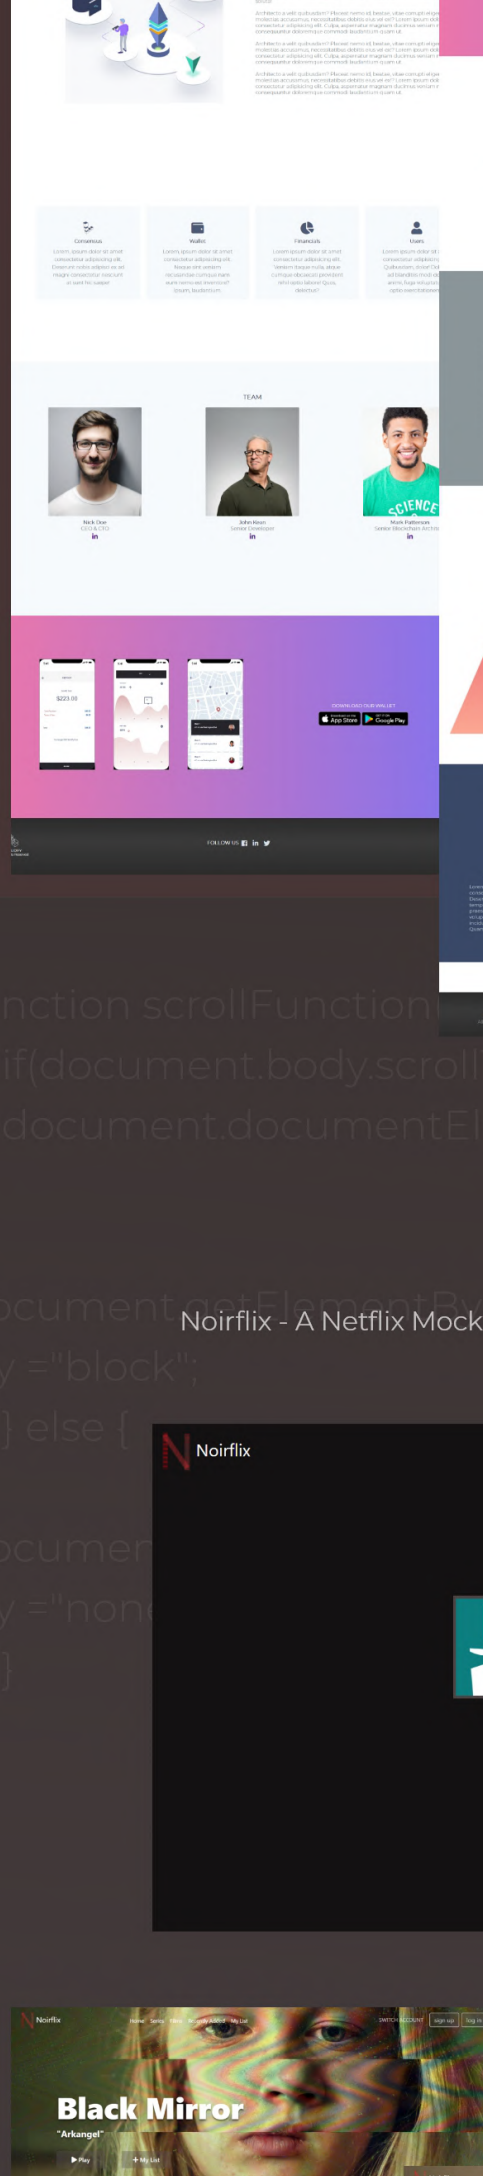

I have a background in art and design (also self-taught) and in business administration. I love working with designs, colors and contrast, whitespaces, font-sizes. It just feels natural to me. I'm strengthening my JavaScript skills, starting to learn React JS, Sass, Node JS and ultimately learn backend web development. When I'm not coding, I'm into UI Design, painting, digital illustrations and photography.
